The catwalks for this spring and summer were full of cat-eyes with a twist. The classic look, which goes up and out from your lash line creating a larger eye, took on several new forms on various runways. Modern yet sexy the runways featured graphic lines with angular shapes and straight flicks on the models eyes. Step outside the norm and try the various ways you can take this season's latest trend to the next level.

Missoni's spring 2014 beauty look had a hint from the Japanese. A natural bare face with a small hint of graphic eyeliner along the inner eye corners make for an ultra cool look. Anthony Vaccarello, presented dramatic triangles on the sides of the eyes and thick eyebrows. Use a triangle stencil to make perfectly matching triangles. Hache's rebel beauty look featured strong and definite black eyes, which you can make by smudging black cream along the lower lash line and then make two lines on your lash line and a longer one under your eye sockets. Derek Lam's show featured small black cubes on the outside corners of the eyes creating a powerful yet minimalist statement. The exaggerated but hollow cat eye was impressive and simple by lining the eye sockets with graceful lines.

Makeup artist Francesca Maffi, similarly follows suit with this editorial photographed by Debora Barnaba, which has black cream smudged along the lower brow and the outside and upward from the corner of the eye. This creates a mysterious, geometric, and bold look. This edgy trend is a wonderful balance to the lightness of spring. Have fun with your black liner this season and color outside the lines!

Crop tops. Do those two little words spring fear in your heart? Well I'm afraid they're here to stay, at least for Spring/Summer 2014. But fear not, there are ways to wear crop tops to suit any figure.

For this season's crop tops think more fitted than baggy. Long sleeves are definitely a good way to ride out the difficult trans-seasonal period from winter to spring. Try teaming a high-waisted pencil skirt with a form-fitting crop top. To keep the look sleek, hitting two trends in one, wear a monochrome ensemble. Wearing matching separates can add an air of sophistication to what can be a more casual piece. For the final touch throw on an oversized jacket or coat to add an element of slouchy and undone sexiness.

If you're unsure about flashing your abs, channel Chanel couture Spring Summer 2014 and wear a crop top over a bodycon vest. Team with a cute above-the-knee length skirt and your glitziest trainers; although you might want to leave the knee pads to the models on the runway. This sporty element works well with crop tops. Why not try one with some high waisted shorts, or a top with zip details?

If you don't want to flash too much flesh, the key to crop tops is to keep the bottom half of the silhouette high-waisted. However, if you are happy to bare-it-all but don't want to feel too exposed, an oversized coat or blazer makes for the perfect cover up.

Admittedly still a little chilly to be showing off too much skin to the outside world, wearing a crop top over a shirt or body-con dress is a great way to wear your crop tops now.

If you really can't bring yourself to buy a stomach baring top, a cropped jacket is a great way to get into this trend.

The graphic trend was huge on the fashion runway and it is popping up everywhere right now. This trend mixes minimalism and geometric prints for a relaxed easy-to-wear style. If maths was not your strong point at school do not let that worry you, as it is time to go back to geometry class.

If you are tired of florals or polka dots but have a love of patterned prints then you have come to the right place. With geometric prints including squares, circles, triangles, hexagons and many more you have the choice of a head-to-toe look or using the trend to accessorise, either way you will end up with a seriously stylish outcome.

You can even use geo prints to accentuate or minimise certain areas of your body. If you have a petite frame then a smaller print will work better. If you are curvier and have larger features then you can get away with wearing a bolder, larger pattern. Try wearing a diamond print around your waist, which will highlight your waist giving you more of an hourglass shape.

Get The Look

Do you want to add a little geometry into your everyday look? Consider standing out from the crowd in a dress with an all-over print. A jumpsuit is also perfect for this look; just make sure the top has quite a classic silhouette, which means that you can go for a wide leg style trouser. Pair with some wedges to add height to the ensemble and to refine the overall look.

Accessories

If your style is more minimalist then go down the accessories route. Why not try wearing a geometric print scarf or opt for sunglasses with edgy oversized frames? Jazz up a monochrome outfit with bracelets or a clutch bag.

THE RETURN TO FLORENCE: ALDO FALLAI

Photographer / ALDO FALLAI
Text / CRISTINA VANNUZZI LANDINI

Florence never ceases to amaze us. They own the music and art themes of this edition of the 85th edition of Pitti Uomo international fair of clothing that presents the world premiere collections of 1,044 brands from abroad. The most striking and elegant event was the retrospective exhibition of photographer Aldo Fallai at Villa Bardini, "From Giorgio Armani to the Renaissance: Photographs 1978-2013" a "return" to Florence for the Florentine photographer who studied at the School of Art at Porta Romana.

Aldo Fallai conquered the fashion world at the end of the seventies thanks to the collaboration with Giorgio Armani. This collaboration helped to create the most important campaigns of recent decades, and some of the most exciting chapters in the history of Made in Italy. The exhibition allows you to discover the creations and the interests of the artist in fashion and beyond. For this reason it is appropriate that the festival took place in Florence, the birthplace where Fallai continues to live, to work and to explore the streets, corners, works and characters in adventurous and exciting discoveries.

The images of Aldo Fallai allow the visitor to rediscover the excellence of Italian fashion in its most beautiful and innovative era, the eighties. It was when Giorgio Armani invented an elegant and vaguely androgynous woman and man with a refined look.

Playing with roles and situations, with the most beautiful, expressive and seductive models, Aldo Fallai reconstructed a world that goes beyond the dress to portray an entire society and a generation with his feelings, moods, places, and seasons.

The importance of his work is fundamental in the last 30 years of fashion and can be followed at <http://aldofallai.tumblr.com/>

Wide open spaces. Panoramic views. Wild horses. And denim, lots and lots of denim. That's right, cowgirl is in! But let's avoid looking like an extra from Deadwood shall we? The modern take on cowgirl does indeed call for leather and denim, but not so much for plaid shirts and a Stetson.

First of all let's switch the Stetson for a wide brimmed fedora or extra wide brimmed sun hat. Neutral colours or animal print both work well. Wear this with wide legged 70s flares and platforms.

Denim jackets are a staple in any cowgirl's wardrobe, but if you're not into double denim, team with leather trousers tucked into some killer embroidered cowboy boots. Functional yet a little subversive.

For the warmer months dig out those daisy duke shorts and team with cowboy boots. To avoid the 'Jessica Simpson in Dukes of Hazzard' look wear a three quarter length trench coat over the top with the sleeves ruched up just so.

For a more feminine-take try a black jersey maxi skirt, wide leather belt and white shirt. Wear the shirt buttons as low as you dare, throw a wide-brimmed fedora onto your tousled hair and you're good to go.

As any good cowgirl knows, belts are a necessity. Stack wide leather belts with large, ornate buckles around your waist. The bigger the better.

Cowboy boots; tall, short, brown, tan, ornate, embroidered, plain and simple. Whichever way you want to wear them, you'll need a pair for this Spring. They work with anything; jeans tucked-in, jeans tucked-out, sundresses, shorts, leather trousers, miniskirts, maxi skirts; you name it, it'll work. If you pick one cowgirl element make it one of these.

The modern cowgirl is cool, relaxed, chic and, above all, seriously awesome.

Courtney Clayton, stylist extraordinaire who first started styling six years ago at a modeling agency in Dallas, Texas discusses her love for styling and shares her advice for aspiring stylists.

En Vie: When did you first begin styling and what led you to this career choice?

Courtney Clayton: Fashion has always been a huge obsession for me and I was an artist growing up, so I guess it just came naturally.

EV: Who inspires you in terms of fashion designers and stylists?

CC: I don't really get inspired by specific designers. I get inspired more by fabrics, texture, and color. However, if I had to choose, one of my favorites, it would probably be Vivienne Westwood. She's quirky and I'm absolutely in love with her!

EV: Who are some of the people you have worked with?

CC: I've had a chance to work with a lot of very talented people in Dallas. Photographers Wade Livingston, Grace Hill, Matt Simmons, Clay Hayner, Moses Olmos, Edwin Watson. MUAHS Alexandria Dixon-Wiggans, Amber Lynne, Walter Fuentes, Ladonna Stein, Cheryll Smith are some of the best. I've also worked with some amazing models: Chelsea Noelle, Hayley Nail, Loren Kavo, Kristie Mays, Roxanna Redfoot, Laura New Myers, Autumn Leppla, & Remy Ryan.

EV: What is the most interesting part of your job?

CC: My favorite part of the job is being on set and watching everyone's magic come to life!

EV: What is your advice for aspiring stylists?

CC: If you want to be a stylist I'd say contact a modeling agency let them know you are interested in doing some test shoots and dive right in! You only get better with experience and confidence

FUN, VIBRANT AND INTERESTING DESCRIBES MARTINA BOHN'S STYLE AND IT DEFINITELY SHOWS WHEN SHE PUTS HER PASSION INTO DESIGNING VARIOUS CREATIONS.

The artistry involved with her talent and know-how, the decisions she makes on the perfect colours or materials, can be seen in the character she implements into each of her hats, whether it be an adorable cocktail hat or a classic black beret. There is a hat for each occasion; casual or formal or if you are at a party or on a fashion shoot. Her hats always manage to add a brightness that would be lacking otherwise.

Although now she mainly works with vintage styles and timeless pieces such as the bowler hat or beret, she is constantly using innovative ways to change the piece by adding vivid colours, buttons, or other materials.

She constantly expresses her imaginative ideas with new techniques. Her handmade hats are easy to wear, ready to be propped on your head to add some dazzle to whatever you are wearing.

Originally from Germany, she has travelled the world, finding unique materials in different places, and allowing each country she has worked in, such as Australia or Belgium, to influence her work. Not only has she collaborated with many professionals in many photo shoots and projects, but was chosen to represent contemporary millinery, and be part of a major design exhibition, Head to Toe which is her millinery business ranging from creations to training workshops.

Modern or traditional, the creator of these fabulously fun hats puts her colourful, quirky style into them. She creates them for women who want to spice up an outfit or add a rich pop of colour to their wardrobe; women who want to have fun with their personal style, and Martina's creations are able to accomplish just that.

The end of the 1920's is when fringes made their first appearance in popular fashion. A typical feature of the American cowboy and Indian, they were used by dancers and actors to attract attention body movements. These long thin stings of cloth emphasized and accentuated the movements with grace and elegance.

During the 1930's this trend spread and became a world-fashion reality. We could find fringes in accessories such as bags, purses, or belts, and of course in every kind of style, and even boots. It is a staple from the classical leather jacket to the colored skirt or trousers. Materials and textiles used to produce them ran the gamut: cotton, satin, leather, linen, and even real feathers.

Long or short, narrow or wide, these stripes which were even seen on Elvis Presley in the '60's, are appearing again now for the spring-summer 2012 season. It will be a fresh, natural and playful season with vivid ponchos and voluptuous skirts. Fringes provide the perfect light touch that brings to mind spring breezes, sunny days spent sitting outside a café with friends, summer laughing and chatting until late and the freedom of walking with bare foot on a carpet of green grass.

If you would like to feel like a modern Pocahontas or if you just want to stand out, you should not miss this trend of the moment. Boots, bags, skirts, dresses, coats or whatever you decide to wear make sure to spice it up with fringes.

Spring is in the air! Say goodbye to freezing snowstorms, wet shoes and grey skies. Give a warm welcome to a flash of spring. In contrast to the boring monotonous winter lifestyle, spring brings us drive, action and speed; as reflected in the spring runway shows. Sports clothes and accessories inspired by the first outbursts of sunny weather appear in trendsetters looks.

At first glance, it seems hard to believe that mixing sporty details with one of elegance can create such a glamorous look. However, the sportswear fashion history dating back to the beginning of 20th Century, the history of Sportswear fashion stems from one of the designers, Gabriel Chanel whom promoted her own active and financially independent lifestyle through her relaxed jersey suits and uncluttered dresses. Considered as clothes suited to resort wear or for some sporting activities at that time, this has in turn inspired designers to collaborate with sport brands nowadays, creating signature collections and their very own lines. A fine example is British designer Stella McCartney who is famous for collaborating with Adidas to launch a sports performance collection for women entitled "Adidas by Stella McCartney."

Sport clothes themselves, especially those that are functionally athletic, creates an impression of action, motion, lightness and flight, exactly what is needed to jump-start the spring mood. Versatile, the sports trend is easily mixable with a variety of other styles, even from bohemian to vintage to elegant.

STYE TIPS

Knitted long gaiters are an ideal addition to a fitted pencil skirt covered with a flowing organza skirt on top and an abstract print blouse. From one perspective, the gaiters make the look more complete, balancing the lower romantic airy half with the tough knitted material. Easily replaceable with black leggings, gaiters also double as comfortable leg warmers that equally compliment a statement dress. Brands such as Akira Mushi and Athina Korda offer a wide variety of sport-inspired accessories, but if you want to accentuate the athletics side of your look, nothing could be better than a bold pair of Nike shoes or any other branded pair for that matter.

Born on the Northern Sea in Germany, in a small town called Bremerhaven, couture designer Vivien Schlueter found her passion in fashion design. Although, not having any form training in fashion design she decided to “fight for [her] dream” and pursue it. After spending years as a seamstress on photo shoots and fashion shows she started her own business, Klash Kouture. She considers the opening of her business as her most proud moment.

Klash Kouture was born in France in 2010. Schluter took some time to decide on a name for her brand. She started as ZündSTOFF in 2005 but another business had that name already. One morning with croissant in hand and some brainstorming, she made puns with the word "Couture". She loved "Clash Couture". A French friend suggested spelling both words with "K".

Schluter, who loves the timeless elegance and cuts of couture, always begins her creative process with the visualization of an idea. She then with much enthusiasm and ambition collects materials and researches topics that inspire her.

Something that makes Klash Kouture unique is that it offer fashion for people with handicaps. Schluter is currently designing individual outfits for people in wheelchairs such as wedding dresses for brides who want their dream dresses and extravagant evening dresses for special occasions.

The creator of Klash Kouture believes that true beauty comes from the inside. “A smiling bride is more beautiful than a bride who is not okay with her dress,” says Schluter. She believes pure beauty opens a door to fantasy and lets you dream. She describes it as looking at a beautiful picture and it allowing it to take you on a journey or like a wonderful garden that invites you to linger. True beauty lets you feel good and comfortable.

Piercing blue eyes, jet-black wavy hair, colorful tattoos of roses and hearts cover her arms, and a sly smile full of determination and passion. Her work is sexy, fun, and gorgeous. Her artistry has improved and continues to improve over the span of her career.

Ever since American makeup artist Shannon Miller was a child, her heart was in the beauty industry. At 17 years of age, she began to work at Safire McMillan Canale Salon in Malibu, California. Shannon soon realized that her passion was not hair but skin and makeup. At 19, Shannon travelled to attend college in Australia and work as a freelancer. Soon after, she returned to the U.S. and joined MAC in South California where she continued to develop her skills. Always looking to grow and learn, Shannon headed to Florida to attend Florida College of Natural Health to obtain an Esthetician license.

She has since enjoyed helping women look the best with make-up, but it also educating her clients on how to maintain beautiful skin. Shannon focuses on Daytime, Nighttime, Professional, and Bridal makeup. Shannon created her own company called Faces By Shannon which is a representation of the knowledge and experience she has gained through the years and around the world. Shannon's experience includes work with models through commercials, photo shoots, makeup lessons and work with talent agencies.

Anna sold the house but not the guitar. When pressed for a reason she said “Priorities?” like it was a question still unanswered. After that they saw her head to the riverbank with her acoustic in tow, dressed for the July heat and weighed down with enough silver to ward off bears while still charming the birds.

On the water’s edge, they all imagined she would sing songs with that dear acoustic friend. The two of them would remember childhood through the screen of soft haze—the screen highlighted in pastels— that adults use when, feeling the pang of nostalgia, look into an innocent and all-too-cherished past.

Her memories held hands; each would pass by in a slow progression. What did she see while gazing at the river? The top-heavy cedar tree where she stole her first kiss with the lanky neighborhood girl? That girl had always been somewhere close until the car accident. Anna’s mum and dad offered their sympathies, but they were as greedy with their emotions as Scrooge during the season of almsgiving. She would not find a welcoming home with them.

When Anna played the guitar, she’d play until the polish of her nails chipped away. When she left for the river, they say she had a new coat of polish. The label read as “Cherry Chapstick” though Anna called it “Just Red”. All the polish was left at home, in the drawer second from the top in the dresser in the spare bedroom, to be exact.

Anna never came back for fresh polish.

Personal, intimate, and innocent describe the work of German photographer Jana Schuessler. Her ability to portray the raw emotional seeded in the eyes of her models is impressive. Although she is a young photographer, she has risen quickly in the industry and shows no sign of stopping. Her passion is palpable and talent unquestionable.

Since she was a child, the 22-year-old Jana Schuessler discovered her interest in photography and since then she never let go of her father's SLR. She describes her work with the camera as liberating. For her it is a way to express feelings which cannot be described with words. Photography allows the possibility to capture special moments and to see the world from a different perspective. In 2009, her passion became her profession and she started her apprenticeship as a photographer near Cologne, which she finished in 2012.

Soon after, she travelled to the fashion capital, New York City to learn more about the fashion photography and to assist some established photographers. At this time she took pictures for some newcomer designers and published her photographs in magazines in Seattle, Canada and the UK. Since December 2013 Jana has worked in Zurich for a successful fashion photographer in order to improve her knowledge and skills.

Schuessler's work can be seen at <http://janaschuessler.blogspot.jp/>.

GYPSEY TALES

Born and raised in America's own Sin City, Las Vegas, Nevada, she briefly lived in the City of Angels. Dakota Nate, 20, has been modeling since the age of 16. A long-time fashion lover who confesses to have played "dress up" up until her teens, Nate discovered an intense passion for modeling after her first photo shoot. She says being in front of the camera "sparks a complete lack of inhibition" in her. En Vie caught up with the gorgeous American model to learn more about her rising career.

En Vie: What is your life's motto?

Dakota Nate: Keep running up the hill that leads you to your dreams, and once there, stay humble. Never forget the ones who helped along the way. There are many women in the industry that either give up the second things get rough, or hit a certain point of success where they let their head surpass their talent. Arrogance is one of the most hideous traits you can carry.

EV: What was the most fun modeling shoot?

DN: I LOVE shooting on location. Any time that I have been able to frolic through a field or play around on a beach whilst on a photo shoot, I've been as happy as can be. I feel like I'm completely in my element when I'm outside.

EV: What is the most challenging part about modeling?

DN: Most definitely, how competitive and discouraging it can get. It's very easy to let yourself get down when there are so many other talented individuals in your field. Sometimes people will tell you that you don't have the right look. But you have to remember that what's "in", changes nearly every week. If you're passionate and driven enough, you'll get past all of the negativity. You get out of it what you put in. It's all up to you as an individual.

EV: What are your short and long term goals?

DN: Recently I was able to move back to Los Angeles to dig deeper for a more serious modeling career and to pursue acting. I signed up for a casting network out here and it has gotten me quite a bit of work. I've been in a couple of commercials and several music videos. The next step is to put together a reel for myself and to find an agent. I would love to begin starring in feature films. Right now, the sky is the limit.

EV: Advice for aspiring models?

DN: Don't let anyone else tell you who or what you are. Stay healthy inside and out, book shoots with local photographers that you trust and build yourself a portfolio. Gain exposure through technology. Never stop networking. Remember, when you do arrive at your destination, be grateful for every second of the struggle you've endured. This is what will define you in the end.

COMBINATION OF SPRING VEGETABLES WITH SHERRY VINEGAR AND FLEUR DE SEL

Chef / Kazuhiko Daito/ESSENTIEL (essentiel.jp)
Writer / Mari Negishi (nyami-nyami.cocolog-nifty.com)
Translator / Chiharu K. Prokop
Photographer / K i i T (www.kiit.jp)

THE SPRING IS A WELCOME RELIEF AFTER THE SEVERELY COLD WINTER!
VEGETABLES BEGIN TO AWAKEN FROM THEIR LONG WINTER SLEEP AND LIVING THINGS SLOWLY COME BACK TO LIFE AGAIN.

Serve vegetables individually to really experience the unique flavors.

Romanesco broccoli, flower of turnip, shallots, artichoke, black radish, celeriac, rutabaga, turnip, butternuts squash and baby carrots. These are delicacies from Hokkaido, Shizuoka, Shiga and Awaji Island.

Rutabaga is a very delicious type of turnip, with an interesting texture and naturally sweet taste. It is also known as a "Swedish turnip".

Sauté raw vegetables in olive oil and steam them with a small amount of bouillon. Add some butter, sherry vinegar, pepper and flower of salt (fleur de sel) as seasoning.

Drizzle on some olive oil to serve.

Our sommelier recommends "2011 Macon Verze Domaine Leflaive".

This wine has a tender flavor like white flowers and citrus. The taste is very fruity and beautifully clear. This elegant wine blends minerals and acidity to enhance the flavors of the vegetable dish.

Only a little water is needed to stew the vegetables so as not to destroy the taste of the vegetables. Keep simmering the broth and mix it with the vegetables. Each vegetable will add a distinct taste to the broth. Acidity of vinegar and fleur de sel to finish will really make for a delicious meal.

The most important thing is "simplicity". "The simpler the cuisine is, the more beautiful and delicious it is."

CHEF KAZUHIKO DAITO

Born in 1976 in Fukuoka, he then moved to the Franche-Comté region for a year, at the age of 24 to work at the French restaurant, Château de Vauchoux. His resume includes stints at Le Violons d'Ingres, Le Taillevent and in 2003, worked with Alain Ducasse at Hotel Plaza Athénée. Back in Japan, he worked for Benoit as a sous-chef. In 2008 he was appointed executive chef at Le Comptoir de Benoit in Osaka in March.

ARIES MARCH 21 - APRIL 19

Rams, you feel as though the world is your oyster and so it is. Your personal power is at its maximum right now and you have all the energy and more to see through any projects you have in mind, so avoid impatience and rushing. A foot massage could do you the world of good.

TAURUS APRIL 20 - MAY 20

You have the confidence and assertion necessary to make a push in your career this month, but be careful you don't cause conflict in the process. Something you do may provoke an unexpected response, so take precautions to prevent causing any heartache, especially to your loved ones.

GEMINI MAY 21 - JUNE 20

Things are going slow right now but after the 20th your love and social life will bloom. There may be the opportunity for foreign travel; especially accept any invitations for group outings! Health and energy will increase too and it is an excellent time to try a new diet or exercise routine.

CANCER JUNE 21 - JULY 22

This is a good month for money and career matters. Support for your ambitions will come from family and elders, helping to bring prosperity and success. A pay rise could be in the offing. After the 20th make sure you take enough rest or your health and energy levels could suffer.

LEO JULY 23 - AUGUST 22

With the water element strong this month, fiery Lions may be wanting to head for the sun. This is an excellent time for foreign travel, especially if it involves something educational. Singles may want to wait until the 26th when an important romantic meeting is highly likely.

VIRGO AUGUST 23 - SEPTEMBER 22

Despite a busy social life and success at work, it is not all plain sailing this month. Make sure you focus on any stresses that may arise in the family and home continued from the previous month. Be gentle and patient as it is a sensitive time for many right now.

LIBRA SEPTEMBER 23 - OCTOBER 22

This month the emphasis is on home and family. A time to review, to stand back and work out what you want and how to achieve it, but this is not the time for action. Take your time and delay important decisions until you feel you can see the situation as it really is.

SCORPIO OCTOBER 23 - NOVEMBER 21

Cosmic power surrounds you this month and could bring love in a form that few may experience. The emphasis is on fun and happy events. However, be careful with your spending, especially on leisure activities and treating others, or you may have to work overtime to compensate.

SAGITTARIUS NOVEMBER 22 - DECEMBER 21

Many are hypersensitive at the moment so this month will be a good exercise for Saggis in tempering your words. Speak the truth by all means, but be gentle in your honesty. If all else fails run for the hills! Or at least get plenty of physical exercise, it will invigorate you.

CAPRICORN DECEMBER 22 - JANUARY 19

Your communication skills are very strong this month and it is an excellent time to focus on the written word; be it letters to friends or making your thoughts known to the world. But keep in mind that these are sensitive times so take care not to cause any unnecessary hurt with your words.

AQUARIUS JANUARY 20 - FEBRUARY 18

Since your birthday the planets have been gaining momentum and there has never been a better time to begin new projects and ventures. Water Bearers are shining and you will draw love and wealth towards you and feel yourself attracted to someone who can provide for you - whatever that may mean.

PISCES FEBRUARY 19 - MARCH 20

Water water everywhere. Fishes, you are in your element this month. You feel comfortable and your emotional energy is powerful and focused. As a result be very careful what you wish for; the month ahead could be a dream come true or your worst nightmare. It is up to you.
